

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus for providing location-based 5 information using a wireless communications system is disclosed. In one embodiment, a message is received from a wireless device containing a request for location-based information. Upon receipt of the message, the location of the wireless device is determined, location-based information 10 is retrieved for the determined location and the location-based information is transmitted to the wireless device.